Fireworks display

Safety violations resolved

By FRANK AMATO

WILMINGTON - Quick response to safety violations at the Fourth of July fireworks display averted potential problems.

According to Department of State Fire Services spokesperson Jennifer Mieth, a State Trooper assigned to the Fire Marshal's office inspected the site and noticed two violations. One being that the staging area was not completely fenced in, as required. The other violation was that there was an overhead obstruction within 50 feet of discharge.

Mieth noted that both violations were immediately corrected and the show went forward without incident.

The Fire Marshal's office inspected about half of the 75 shows held in the state. Of those inspected, 13 had violations including Wilmington. The fireworks display in Falmouth was halted due to 11 major code violations on their fireworks barge.

Mieth noted that the shooter of the fireworks is held personally responsible for knowing the fire codes. The Fire Marshal's office will conduct a hearing on the violations at a later date.

Town puts brakes on worm stand

Night crawlers busted

Building Inspector notifies kids

by ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Seven Stokes and Joshua Harrington have been informed their business is in violation of town laws. Daniel W. Paret, in a letter to Mr. Harrington, informed the Wilmington residents, that their running a business from their home is in violation of Section 4.1.3 and 6.3.4.1 of the Zoning Bylaw. They have erected a sign. That is not allowed. They are selling worms. They are 10 and 11 years old!

The two boys had worked night and day to construct their bait stand in front of Joshua's house on Middlesex Ave. Some day they hope to have their own business.

Diane Harrington, Joshua's mother received the letter on July 6 from Wilmington's Inspector of Buildings, Daniel W. Paret. "I'm upset that we did all this work and now they're trying to take it away from us, said Steven.

It was a love for fishing that united the two entrepreneurs. The friends decided to build their own bait stand. "We were fishing one day and talking about starting a business," explained Joshua. They started collecting worms from Joshua's yard. Then they headed to Steven's house to gather wood for the stand. The boys added the finishing touches by painting it white. Combining their last names, the sign on the stand reads "Harrington's Bait Shop."

Steven and Joshua made $31 over the last three weeks. "Our first customer was the day after we built the stand. He was a guy fishing down Palmer Way. He asked us where we got our bait," boasted Steven. "I told him we have our own bait stand. He bought some then. He came back the next day and bought five and a half dozen worms!"

They've spent most of their money at the beach and the town carnival.

With some kids getting involved in illegal activities, Diane Harrington and Steven's mother, Patty Stokes were pleased to see their sons engaging in something positive. But the notice from Paret has left them confused. "How can they discourage them when they are doing something that has kept them busy for the summer?", queried Harrington.

Echoing Harrington's sentiments Patty Stokes shared, "My heart would be broken if the town made them take the stand down. Their hearts would be broken, too. For the past three weeks, they have been working so hard. This is a positive learning experience for them. He's [Steven] being exposed what it's like to run a business."

When contacted by this newspaper on July 7 Paret would not discuss the issue. "The letter [to the Harringtons] said for them to call me. I won't talk about it with you without talking to them first," informed Paret.

Commuter rail station

Parking discussions with MBTA July 13

BY ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Representatives from the MBTA are scheduled to attend the board of selectmen meeting July 13 to discuss the proposed commuter rail station parking project on Main Street.

"The MBTA wants to hammer out the plans at the next meeting before moving on," said the Board of Selectmen Chairman, Michael Newhouse.

The 30 percent design will allow for 227 vehicles and will be surrounded by greenery. It will also be accessible to handicapped commuters.

The parking facility improvements will accompany the proposed $5.2 million commuter rail station.

Newhouse explained that the project will involve taking various business for the purpose of developing the lot. "Big Joe's and Bagels to Boston would remain. But, the other businesses extending down to the dog grooming shop would be taken under the designs," stated Newhouse.

Representatives of the MBTA met with the selectmen at their

May 26 meeting. Project manager William Howell told the board that the MBTA would take responsibility for maintaining the lot. They would also provide short-term parking for patrons of the remaining businesses once construction is finished.

Newhouse said a concern raised at the meeting was whether the MBTA would go before the planning board for site plan review. Wilmington's Planning and Conservation Director, Lynn Duncan could not be reached to verify whether they would be attending a planning board meeting.

Newhouse shared that he expects the board to vote on whether to support the project at the next meeting. "There'll certainly be more to write about after the meeting," he added.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in room 9 at town hall. Property owners and residents are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Wilmington bicyclist injured in North Woburn accident

WOBURN - A Wilmington man suffered what were believed to be serious head injuries after he fell off his bicycle and struck a car parked on Main Street in North Woburn, Thursday night. William Tate, 19, Wilmington, was treated at the scene and then taken by Woburn Fire Department ambulance to Lahey Clinic in Burlington. An update on Tate's condition was unavailable as of press time. Tate, who was traveling with three friends on a bike trip into Woburn, allegedly lost control of his cycle and it went over a curb. His head reportedly struck the back end of a car parked outside the Pasta Pot. Tate ended up underneath the motor vehicle, which had to be moved by rescue crews before they could begin to administer aid.

Suspicious fire investigation

By FRANK AMATO

WILMINGTON - Wilmington Police Detectives are continuing their investigation into a suspicious fire that occurred in a Pineridge Road home over the weekend.

Police are releasing few details about the incident, however have indicated that there was more than one point of origin in the blaze, which caused minor damage.

Inspectors John Bossi and Dave Sugrue are investigating the case along with the state fire marshal's office.

It's YOUR Money

GET CREDITS ON A "FEEL-GOOD" INVESTMENT

Most investors are looking for profits and maybe tax benefits. If that can be combined with a socially acceptable end, so much the better. Certain real estate investments fill the bill.

Putting money into low-income housing - to buy it or fix it up - can earn the investor up to 10 years of tax credits. Partnerships are available in which a $10,000 investment can produce some $14,000 worth of tax credits and maybe a return on investment, too. These credits can't offset the alternative Minimum Tax, though. Note, too, that there's a legal limit on the amount of credit you can take each year, so it's not practical to invest too much.

In addition, credits of 10 percent of the money spent are available for investments in rehabilitating buildings constructed before 1936, 20 percent if the building qualifies as a certified historic structure. This is sometimes combined with the low-income housing projects for a higher credit total.

When promoters promise tax breaks, check them out with the people you trust at

Letters to the Editor

Why are the laws against true criminals never enforced?

Dear Editor:
I would like to have one question answered. Why is the drum kept beating on the propaganda band wagon of gun control. To begin with it is not gun control, it is gun elimination. Laws being voted on have no effect on criminals and would not protect anyone. I am all for getting the criminals off the streets and protecting our children, but not at the expense of all of our rights.

My right to gun ownership should not be taken away because you choose not to exercise your right to gun ownership. There are numerous laws already on the books that are never used. What ever happened to the mandatory one year sentence gun law? I think you will find that this law was never used. Why was it deemed to be unfair for the criminal?

Why are the laws against true criminals never enforced? The laws being voted are so vague that they would make almost all guns be classified as assault weapons. All weapons or any object is an assault weapon, but not until it is used to assault someone. If all guns were to vanish from the face of the earth the criminal would just find some other tool to help them commit their crimes. So if all these laws have no effect on these criminals, then what is their real purpose? Why do you keep beating the propaganda drum? What is your real goal?

In the last 10 years only eight people have died from assault weapons. Four of those were suicides. If you really want to curb crime and violence then we should spend more time with our children. We should shut off the Saturday morning cartoons of mass violence that have no morals. We shouldn't use the local mall as a babysitter and we should go to the movies with our children so they don't sneak into that R rated cinema.

But that would mean that you would have to do something now wouldn't it? That would mean that you would have to spend time with your child. Education and control starts in the home. Just as all gun owners should be required to have their guns under some sort of lock and key, a parent should have some sort of control over their child and we all should have control over our criminals.

But Don't tell me I have to loose my rights because it's the most convenient way for you not to have to do your part in society. Let's all make this a better society by dealing with the real problems; not the imaginary fabricated problems that shield someone else's goal of mass control over us all.

Furthermore, I find it sad and yet interesting that in the same newspaper issue listing the 4th of July celebrations of freedom that we are told that we should loose our personal control over that item (the gun) that gave us all this freedom in the first place.

Richard Towle,
Wilmington

Town Crier Newsnote: Wilmington School Committee member Robert Young unexpectedly resigned, leaving an empty seat. Now in typical Wilmington style the selectmen and school committee will select a replacement until an election, when the voters will get their say.

Letters to the editor

Tierney is supportive of veterans

Dear Editor:
As an advocate for veterans and their families living throughout the North Shore, I try, as best I can, to stay clear of the political battles that erupt every two years. But, there are times, and this is one of those, when I need to come forward and speak my piece.

Last week, many newspapers on the North Shore carried a story concerning U.S. Representative John Tierney's vote regarding the Blue Line Bill. They noted that Congressman Tierney, who had pushed to extend the Blue Line had voted against the Bill.

Congressman Tierney's major opponent, Peter Torkildsen fired off a volley slamming Tierney, accusing the Representative of cutting veterans' benefits to supply funding for the Blue Line extension.

As it actually turned out, Mr. Tierney did not, in fact, vote for the extension and therefore did not vote to pull funding from veterans. Peter Torkildsen's campaign manager, Gene Hartigan later announced that he had jumped the gun when firing the volley.

The Veterans Administration states that there are over 64,000 veterans living on the North Shore. Now, if you are not one of those, then allow me to share some insight that each of those possess.

When a veteran begins to get on in years, the same government that he or she served, turns its back on him or her. And when the veteran is in need, and that happens, it hurts.

Congressman Tierney went on record with the press stating his reason for voting against the Blue Line Bill, "The fact of the matter was that there was an unbelievable rush to get this thing to the floor. And a victim of the whole thing was protective services to veterans and others."

Congressman Tierney stood firm in his belief that funds should not be taken away from the benefit of veterans. Why? Because he believes in veterans, and has, since entering congress been a very strong advocate for veterans. But, nevertheless, his major opponent slammed Mr. Tierney, and then his staff discovered their mistake, and came up with an almost, "Oh. Sorry. We moved too fast on that one."

I appreciate a political race as well as anyone. But I feel Peter Torkildsen should be ashamed of himself for using veterans for the hammer to hit Congressman Tierney, and then having to admit he was wrong in the process. An explanation was given to the press, but where was the apology to the veteran community, that over 64,000 veterans in our community. I assume Peter Torkildsen's staff did not think that was necessary. I mean, why apologize, they're only veterans.

Veterans are not to be used, they are to be honored. Before being elected, Congressman Tierney said that he would be there for veterans, and he has been, over and beyond what would have been expected of him. As a veteran advocate on the North Shore, I take great exception to anyone trying to make a point that is opposite of that truth. Tierney is good to and for veterans. That is a fact.

All night party great success

Dear Editor:
On June 1, 1998, the seniors of Wilmington High School took part in the first official "All Night Party" held in the gymnasium of Wilmington High School. The drug and alcohol free event was a great success. The students were surprised at all the wonderful raffle prizes, activities, and foods that were offered. They could only have been provided with the business community's help. Thank you for your great contribution.

Sincerely,
Kristin Flynn,
Senior Class President

Correction

Dear Editor:
I am the current president of Wilmington Kiwanis Club. Every year Wilmington Kiwanis publishes, with the help of the Town Crier, a Fourth of July supplement. In the supplement is a schedule of events for the week and ads that the club sells for fund raising.

I was shocked when I opened up the front page and saw a letter from the President of Wilmington Kiwanis Club that I had not written or even had the opportunity to review. This letter stated and I quote, "Although I personally work out of town, please drop in to".... This statement is false. I am an electrical contractor in town and have been in town for more than 10 years.

New charitable donation box

Dear Editor:
The St. Vincent de Paul Society would like to thank Stelio's Family restaurant, for donating space for a clothing collection bin. The new bin is located at 144 Lowell Street (Route 129) Wilmington, and tax deductible donations can be made any time.

I wonder what my customers think.
Robert G. Beaulieu
Wilmington

General Manager's Note:

Mr. Beaulieu did not review the letter, however, the intent was to re-write the letter of several past club presidents, as has been the precedence. The reference to out of town was to direct people to a well known store front in town and not have to find Mr. Beaulieu at which ever job site he may have been working at whether it is in Wilmington or another town. Mr. Beaulieu is a busy electrician, his time is in high demand. The tactical blunder is regretted.

Wilmington is a great town

Dear Editor:
I'm sure you'll receive lots of letters today from people who had a great time during the festivities for the Fourth. Some will have memorable experiences from the carnival, the games, the food, the fireworks, the great library book sale. I, too, have a memorable experience I am happy about - from the bathrooms!

I'm four months pregnant. On Friday evening, we arrived for the carnival at about 8:00. I wasn't feeling great, so I told my family and friends to go to the carnival and I would sit on the lawn where we had our blanket and chairs. Around 8:15, I headed to the gymnasium to find a bathroom. As I walked into the hallway, holding my side which was in a lot of pain, a woman custodian immediately spotted me. She led me to a private, locked bathroom and waited nearby. When I came out, she offered to find me a place to rest. Kathy (or, maybe Cathy) was so very kind. She took me to a comfortable room with a couch and checked in on me periodically.

Later she brought me some bottled water. A gentleman custodian was also helpful, I didn't get his name. About an hour later, feeling better, and not wanting to miss the fireworks or worry my family, the gentleman's wife escorted me back to my blankets and concerned husband.

Wilmington is a great town. It is full of great, caring people. Thanks to Kathy for making my night a lot easier.

Susan Rufo,

Have I done enough to support my child's education?

Dear Editor:
Politicians have fired the first shots in the war on education. House Speaker Thomas Finneran, and candidates for governor Cellucci and Malone, have joined forces in blaming the failure of our education system on teachers. In the smoke of political battle, teachers are easy targets. In the 1960's, they were seen as heroes. In the 1990's, they are branded as incompetent! What happened?

Over the past 25 years, we have spent billions of our tax dollars on the education system. Responsible politicians and school administrators have tried to make improvements to the system, but to no avail. We now turn out graduates who, in some cases, cannot read, write or add simple numbers. How is this possible? After all the expended efforts, we have met with failure.

That failure has had a direct impact on the business world and the armed forces. Some companies are forced to spend money and time training job candidates to meet the basic standards of daily operations. Communications and finance are not strong points of many of our students. The military has invested vast sums of funding in high tech equipment systems, only to discover recruits lack the ability to operate and maintain the new equipment. To counter this problem, they modified their text books and lesson plans into comic book style manuals to make it easier for the students to understand.

The "dumbing down" of America can be witnessed at any establishment which relies on computerized cash registers. When there is a power failure, you either get the wrong change or you don't get service. In an effort to address these problems, attention is being directed to the people responsible for educating our children. The teachers, as can be seen in the news of late, politicians are quick to find scapegoats to hang. Under pressure from parents who have potential votes, victims have already been found. It is the same situation when our justice system fails or we bungle a military operation. It is easy to place blame on the cops and the soldiers. No one at the state capital or White House will admit fault.

Now we are told that our teachers are incompetent and parents are demanding a major overhaul of the system. And you know what that means? More money, more money, more money! Just like the "Big Dig." Are we going to pay a lot for this repair job? You bet your life we will!! Money, however, will never instill values, teach respect, or bring discipline to our education system. These things are rooted in the homes and families of the students. If they do not get these things at home, how will they get them in the classroom? Are we asking our teachers to raise our children as well as educate them? The answer is "Yes!"

What we have here today is a classic case of failure to communicate. Trying to raise children under harsh economic conditions is not easy for anyone. But being working parents or single parents does not justify neglecting your responsibilities to instill some good qualities in your child. Age seven is the age of reason. It is when a child should know right from wrong. It is when a child needs guidance and values. As a parent, you need to talk with your child's teacher to find out if there are any problems.

The teacher and the parent have the same goal. To provide a good education. Social work and behavior are home issues. Education is a school issue. Until we accept this, we will never arrive at good education.

Teachers today must deal with many issues which did not exist 25 years ago: murder, attempted murder, sexual assault, rape, drugs, drive by shootings, the list goes on. Classrooms are disrupted every day by students who are rude or violent, making it difficult to maintain an atmosphere for quality education. Money spent on security of schools is money not going into new books and teaching aids. Parents, not teachers, have failed to prepare their children for an education. Look at it this way. You cannot teach a wild tiger to beg for food, and you cannot teach a wild child to study mathematics. Both need to be raised up from infancy to understand right and wrong. If you fail to do that, don't blame anyone but yourself.

Any minister, priest, or rabbi will tell you that children need guidance from their parents and families. I am not saying we all have to be the Brady Bunch, Doctor Huxtable, or Father Knows Best. Most American families are in various stages of conflict or experience some form of dysfunction. That should not keep us from our task of educating our children. Before you point the finger of blame, look inward and ask yourself this: "Have I done enough to support my child's education?" In closing, think of this. If the government made parents take a competency test, would we get an "A" or an "F"?

When contacted again on July 8, Paret confirmed that he had not spoken to the Harrington's or Stokes'.

Noting that there have been lemonade stands along Middlesex Ave., Harrington questioned the difference between the two. "I'd like to know why there have been lemonade stands, and this isn't allowed."

After being out of the office for several days, Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira was notified of the matter late Wednesday morning. "I'm not familiar with the specific issue. But, I'll be more than happy to look into it," said Caira.

Commenting on the incident Wilmington Selectman James Rooney said, "This is unbelievable. I will certainly look into the matter."

Fortunately the matter has not dampened the boy's ambitions to own business. Steven said that he would enjoy doing it again someday. They do not, however, understand why their first business venture has been observed in violation. "I think it's mean," said Joshua. "Why do we have to get permission when it's already in my yard?"

Thank are extended to all who attended the 18th Annual Exhibition. They are what makes it all worthwhile.

New social editor announced

Greetings! My name is Lisa Carriere and I will be the new Social Page Editor for the Tewksbury-Wilmington Town Crier. Please contact me with any social news you may have, whether it is an upcoming wedding, engagement, or social function.

I am a lifelong Tewksbury resident. I am married with two children, an eleven year old daughter and a four year old son. I graduated from Tewksbury Memorial High School in 1979 and continued on to Suffolk University in Boston where I majored in journalism and public relations. I wrote for Suffolk's newspaper, and later wrote for the Billerica Minuteman. I have more recently written for other local weekly newspapers.

My daughter and I volunteer at Tewksbury's Senior Center for their Serve New England food program and enjoy our time there very much. I also volunteered and participated in many functions at the Heath Brook School, from which she recently graduated.

I look forward to meeting the many people involved in the social clubs and organizations in both towns. Please feel free to contact me with any social news you may wish to have announced, whether it be a spaghetti supper, ice cream social or high school reunion. I can be reached at 658-2346. I hope to hear from you soon.

Chris Cassidy Wins video award again

WILMINGTON - For the second consecutive year, Chris Cassidy, a member of Wilmington Community Television, is a winner in the Alliance for Community Media's Hometown Video Festival for his coverage of the 1997 Wilmington Town Election.

"It was a team effort that made the show work," said Chris about the election coverage. "Everyone was really proud of the final product. I think they all had fun making the show work."

Chris received the award for best election coverage in last year's Hometown Festival held in Milwaukee and was awarded for best election coverage at the Massachusetts Cable Television Awards in October. Chris has produced Wilmington's live election coverage for the past four years.

Chris also produces Sports Roundup, a weekly show featuring Wilmington High School sports on WCTV's channel 10. In addition, he is co-producer of the weekly sports talk show Sports Forum on WCTV's channel 9. Past guests include Jo Jo White, Bob Lobel and Mike Adams.

The Hometown Video Festival is a national contest receiving entries from all over the United States and several of the Canadian provinces. Hundreds of entries are judged each year out of which only a handful win. This year's conference will be held in Portland, Oregon.

Dawn Sheehan to wed Paul Wolejko

TEWKSBURY - Beverly and Alfred Devine of Tewksbury have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dawn E. Perry Sheehan, to Paul G. Wolejko, son of Virginia and Victor Wolejko of Sunderland.

The bride-to-be, mother of Brooke E. Sheehan, is a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School and is an order administration specialist at Schneider Automation, No. Andover.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Franklin County Technical School and UMass, Amherst, is a principal engineer with Schneider Automation, No. Andover.

An August wedding is planned.

Ricci deployed to Mediterranean

TEWKSBURY - Marine Lance Cpl. Mark D. Ricci, son of Joyce M. Ricci of Tewksbury, recently participated in Exercise Destined Glory

while on a six month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf with the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU), embarked aboard ships of the USS Wasp Amphibious Ready Group.

Ricci's Unit participated in the multinational NATO exercise along with 25 ships from Great Britain, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and the United States. The exercise tested and enhanced the capabilities of a combined NATO Amphibious Task Force in the Mediterranean Sea.

In addition, Marines from Ricci's unit had the opportunity to demonstrate their infantry tactics and to learn the finer points of interoperability with foreign troops from Italy and Spain.

Home based in Camp Lejeune, N.C. Ricci's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel and are divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group and a command element. With the combination of these teams, Ricci's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces.

The 1992 graduate of Billerica Memorial High School, joined the Marine Corps in January 1995.

Summer fund-raising

By: JENNIFER REALE

Tewksbury - A part of many high school students' time is fund-raising. Whether they are involved in the band, the student council, the International Club, or any other co-curricular activity, chances are they need money to support what they do. The money can be raised in many different ways, and many attempts have been made ranging from car washes to candy sales.

Recently on Sunday, June 29, the Tewksbury Memorial High School Student Council held a group Yard Sale on Shawsheen Street. The money raised goes towards sending delegates to leadership conferences, scholarships for the graduating seniors, freshmen orientation, and all of the things that they do throughout the school year such as Teacher Appreciation Week, American Education Week, and the pep rallies. As the Student Council treasurer, I had to be present for this activity, it was quite a learning experience, despite previous fund-raising I have been a part of with student council, class council, and DECA.

My day started when I had to wake up at 7:00 a.m., even though school was out for the summer, and I had the day off from work. I got up, got ready, and headed out to the car, which was already well stocked with boxes. After a pit stop at Brueggers to pick up bagels and coffee, after all something had to wake up a bunch of teenagers at 7:30 on a Sunday morning, I arrived at the girls house.

It was 7:30 and we had a half an hour until our yard sale was to start. We began by setting up tables in the driveway. We then tried to differentiate our items by price range. We discovered that we had a wide variety of books, more than anything else. We had everything from diaper genies to skateboards, from vases to teakettles, from snow blowers to cots. Yes, we were a well rounded yard sale. Our next step was advertising. We had already posted flyers around town and near the house. We now posted cardboard signs with arrows near the street. We figured we were ready.

It was now time to sit back and wait. And wait was what we did for the first hour. It started out slow, after the first two hours I think we had raised about eight dollars. We did not get discouraged though, instead we stood at the end of the driveway, holding signs and getting potential customers attention. It did work, as business began to pick up. Then business would die down. In our off time, we kept ourselves amused with the games and toys for sale. Most people drove right by, usually giving a wave or some sort of apologetic look. They felt they had to explain themselves for not stopping. It was ok though, because at the end of the day, when we packed up we had earned a total of eighty dollars. We decided to donate any leftover items to a local shelter.

All in all, it was a good day. The Student Council got to clean out their closets, and earn money for their group. I personally can't wait for August 8, when we are having our car wash at the Knights of Columbus. It should be another exciting day, and I am sure I will learn plenty.

Maureen A. Foresteire

and Ralph E. Newhouse

GRI, CRB

WHAT TO DO ABOUT TERMITES

Most real estate offers require an inspection by a licensed exterminator to determine that the house doesn't have termites or other wood boring insects. The inspector will look for two things in deciding whether or not to pass a house--an active infestation and evidence of a past infestation.

If your house does not pass the termite inspection, get a list of qualified exterminators from your Realtor. Find out the treatment options they offer and their charges for the service. Exterminators are usually quite competitive. If your home was treated for a past infestation, the company which performed the extermination may be willing to re-certify your home without a second treatment. Arrange for the termite inspection as early as possible, so you will have time to determine the best way to get rid of them, if they are found.

Fifteen locals in Bay State Games

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The 17th annual Bay State Games will begin with opening festivities on Thursday, July 16th at 7:00 pm at the Fleet Center. That will be the start of the ten-day, 23 sport Olympic style amateur competition that features some of the best athletes in the state of Massachusetts.

Among those athletes, 30 of them come from either Tewksbury or Wilmington, mostly in wrestling, juniors basketball, gymnastics and track and field competition. Interestingly enough, of the 30 locals, the youngest competing is a 10-year-old, while on the opposite end there is a 51-year-old local competing as well. So this year's games should be fun just from the local side.

Anyhow from Tewksbury, there are 15 athletes. In junior basketball competition, Alex Marcin (age 12), Courtney O'Brien (12), Jason Donoghue (12), Jeff Elwell (11) and Vanessa Russell (14) will take part in the festivities that will begin on Thursday, July 16th at the Reggie Lewis Center Field House Courts 1 & 2 beginning at 11:00 am. In track and field competition, locals Bill Harriman (age 51), Mike Sheeley (19) and Patrick Dooling (16) will begin on Saturday, July 25 from 9 am to 5 pm at Shrewsbury High School. George and Robert

Donovan (ages 22 and 19) along with Scott Wiitala (14) will wrestle and they begin on Friday, July 17 at 4 pm at UMass-Boston. In ice hockey, Kevin Monahan (15) and Mike O'Neill (17) will compete in the guys play, while, Erin Sweet (14) will be part of the debut girls program. Boys action will begin on Tuesday, July 21 at the New England Sports Center Rink at 1:00 pm, while the girls will start on Thursday at 5:00 at the same rink. Finally from Tewksbury, is 16-year-old Randy Disouza who will be playing soccer which will get underway on Thursday, July 16 at 1:30 at UMass-Boston.

Now for the 15 athletes from Wilmington we begin with the most popular event of wrestling (same starting times as Tewksbury). Seven wrestlers will be competing and they are: Brian Shea, Brian Grillo, Dave Senarian, Jeff Coughlin, Jose Cotto, Pat Heffernan and Mike Bonnell. In track and field Adrienne Grise, Kevin and Matt Kacamburas and Laura Winn will all take part as will Nicole Sauve, Annmarie Dalba and Michelle Neistepski in gymnastics and Charlie Ross in Judo.

Fish in clear water tend to rely more on vision

BY BILL CONLON

One bright morning, you find yourself about to go fishing in some place other than your "home" pond. Uh-oh!

Perhaps you're on vacation, or you're on a business trip (isn't a bass boat better for "talking business" than a golf cart?), or you're about to enter a big-bucks fishing tournament. And you haven't got a clue as to what's under the surface.

Relax, bunk! Fish are fish no matter where you go. There are many things you can learn from studying the pond before you even get the boat wet. (We'll stick to still water this time. Next week we'll take a look at streams and brooks.)

First (and I know this sounds obvious) look at the water. Right there at the shore. Is the water clear, tea colored or muddy? It makes a difference. Is the bottom sandy, rocky or muck? That too matters! Fish in clear water tend to rely on vision more. Darker lures might work well here. But in murky or peat-stained water, vision takes a back seat to feel, so think about spinners, wobblers, and anything that the fish can find without looking. Brighter colors in darker water is the rule.

As for the type of bottom, that too makes a difference. Muck-floored ponds won't have much wild-life down on the deck, so weed beds are your best bet. Sand is pretty barren, so look for stickups and other obstructions, while a rocky floor may hold all sorts of little surprises such as minnows and small fry. If there are lots of little fish in the shallows, that's a good sign! Think first about minnow imitations. And keep in mind, we haven't even put the boat in the water yet!

Now, you're underway and looking for a spot to drop anchor. Where? Hmm. A good question!

I'm prone to fish the edges of weedbeds first, but that's just me. Different forms of weeds grow at different depths, which tells you a lot about the layout of the pond. Small leaf lily pads like shallow water, around two feet deep, while big pad lillies run deeper, up to three feet. Pickerel weed and coontail are in deeper water still, up to five and six feet. Weeds hide little fish, and where there are little fish there are usually bigger ones out looking for lunch!

Another feature I look for is the slope of the shoreline. If the shore drops steeply to the water's edge, logic dictates that there will be a pretty steep drop under the water.

How deep? Well, either a depth finder or your anchor line will tell you that. But if there's a spot nearby where the shore has a more gradual slope, that's even better!

Try to visualize a steep drop into the deeps, but nearby is a shallow shelf, probably with weeds. I'd suggest trying the edge of the dropoff, where fish will hang out in search of chow with a deep plunge handy in case of trouble.

Feeder streams and exit streams are also hotspots in strange terrain. There might be a passing meal in the stream, and fish (notoriously lazy, those boys) will often be hovering there, looking for a handout. Fallen trees, small islands, exposed rocks - all are worth a cast or two. With a little luck, you can master your new pond in a matter of hours just by looking around.

Better still, however, is to ask around at the local bait shop. Just don't waste your time asking anybody else fishing on the pond. They lie. I know I do when some fool asks if I'm catching anything ("just a couple of small ones") and what I'm using ("worms") and where to go ("anywhere").

Tackle box
High folks! Remember me? I expect a few of you might. Get those permits in for antlerless deer, kiddies! August 15 is the deadline, and in some parts of the state you are virtually guaranteed to get a "doe" permit. (This is one of those areas!) The state controls the deer herd by controlling the number of does taken out, and this region needs some trimming!

12 and under softball team clubs Lynnfield, 15-2

The 12 and under Wildcat Softball Team started its season in a promising manner by defeating Lynnfield 15-2.

Maria Sorrentino and Lauren Cushing pitched for the Wildcats and displayed exceptional control and composure throughout the game.

Kristen Burns and Lauren Rappoli fueled the offensive attack with key hits with runners in scoring position.

Katie Riley and Jackie Rideout displayed intelligence and speed on the basepaths.

Loni Cabral-Pini put a halt to a big inning by Lynnfield by making a terrific play at second base.

The Wildcats improved their record to 2-0 by defeating No. Reading, 20-8 after being down 6-0. Lauren Cushing went the distance striking out nine and pitching out of many difficult situations.

Maria Sorrentino's single with the bases loaded and two outs was one of the big hits while Jackie Rideout contributed a run scoring double.

Lani Cabral-Pini and Corey Iosue's daring base running kept the opposition off balance the whole game.

Kristen Burns' steady defensive play at first highlighted the Wildcats' defense. Marjorie Taylor's intelligent play in centerfield cemented the victory that sent the entire team to the carnival with smiles.

Lucky readers

Congratulations to "Lucky Readers of the Week" Fiona Gately, Julia MacDougall, Heather Daney and Ryan Kennedy whose names were randomly drawn for prizes that were donated by the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library. To enter the "Lucky Reader" contest one must get a "Detective's Notebook" and answer the question of the week. Week one's question was: what is your favorite mystery book?

Answers which topped the list of favorites were: The Boxcar Children; Nate the Great; Cam Jansen; Detective Dinosaur; Sherlock Holmes; The Treasure of Alpheus Winterborn; The Treasure Hunt; and Incognito Mosquito.

The mysterious trunk

The case of the "Mysterious Padlocked Trunk" has been solved again! Grand winner Jeremy Oprey guessed that the "crocodile puppet" was in the trunk while Jennifer Comer's answer was "a puppet." Again a new item was placed in the trunk and grand winner Katelyn Enwright solved the mystery with her answer of "black footprints" while Erin Lloyd wrote "construction paper."

Thank you to LeDuc's Card and Gift; Video Paradise; and Onstage Video for prizes to be presented to the "Trunk" winners.

Mystery trivia

"He laughs best who laughs last." Do you know the origin of this saying? You can find the answer in Random House Dictionary of Popular Proverbs & Sayings (Ref 398.921). This book presents and explains 1500 well known expressions including "Nice guys finish last," "Haste makes waste," and "It's a piece of cake."

Bookends

Bookends, the library's book discussion group, will meet Thursday, July 9 at 7 p.m. to discuss Joy Luck Club by Amy Tan.

The parade is the highlight

Wakefield's 4th draws crowds from all over

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Numbers from throughout the area show that, for the most part, people in the Middlesex East readership know how to have a safe and happy Fourth of July.

In all of the communities the traditional celebrations, or lack of them in some communities, were held. Celebrations such as kids parades, pet parades, community breakfasts, bonfires, concerts and of course fireworks.

There were no bonfires or fireworks in Wakefield, but that did not mean that a traditional Independence Day celebration was not held. For the 55th year, the people of Wakefield got together and threw the areas biggest parade. The town opened its doors wide to invite people from all over to see the extravaganza.

People such as Olympic Medalist Nancy Kerrigan and NATO Commander General John Rogers Galvin (U.S. Army ret.) as well as Betty Shea, a World War II WAVE, who secretly helped this country break the Japanese war time codes have sat on the viewing stand as the Grand Marshall of the Wakefield Independence Day Parade over the past few years.

This year former Wakefield Fire Captain Charles Curran held the honor. Curran was a left blister runner on a B-29 stationed on Tinian, in the Marianna's Islands during the war.

"I was able to see the war from above and below," Curran said in an interview.

Because of his actions in the war, Curran, who reached the rank of Staff Sergeant, is the recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with four clusters. He also holds the Air Officer of Japan Award and the Battle Star for the bombing of Iwo Jima.

As for the honor of being the Grand Marshall, Curran said, Wakefield's 4th to S-4

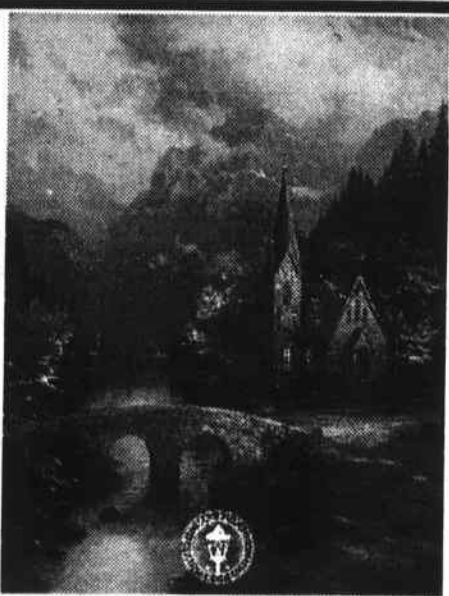

THIRD PLACE WINNER in the large float division of the Wakefield 4th of July Parade was the entry above from the Boy Scout Troop 513 of the First Congregational Church of Stoneham.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Jimmy Geary was a Star Salesman for the Sunshine Biscuit Co. Jimmy's personality matched the product he was selling. His son Jimmy "Pottsie" Geary however, looked like he ate all the samples.

Two Silkworms were in a race and they both ended up in a TIE. I think it's the one my Aunt Nora gave me as a "Christmas present" and I used it to tie up my tomato plants.

Bill Burton was Chief Yeoman on the U.S.S. Carrier Wasp. No Joke, I swear-I made history on the Wasp. She was in the Boston Naval Shipyard having a new flight deck installed. I felt a sharp pain in the back of my neck so I went to sick bay. The medic on duty let out a loud laugh saying, "you got STUNG by a Wasp that apparently came aboard with the load of decking."

After reading that Chip, Clout Tomkinson said, "I felt a sharp pain but it wasn't in the back of my neck." Well Clout, that will cost you five dollars at the next Kiwanis meeting.

I love ice cream so, I stopped at my favorite Kelly's Kremer and asked the pretty young lady, Diane Stevenson, "what flavors ice cream do you have today?" She replied in a hoarse voice, "Vanilla, Chocolate and Strawberry." She apparently had a head cold so I asked, "do you have laryngitis?" "Chipper I just told you, Vanilla, Chocolate and Strawberry!" Diane's mother Flo Savage is the Manager of Kelly's Kremer.

I remember when I asked Jimmy Serra at the bakery, "how much is your, POUND Cake?" Jimmy smiled and said, "16 ounces sir."

Sonny Pearlman told me that the Postal Service is training a cross between a carrier Pigeon and a Woodpecker to deliver the mail. It will get to your house faster and will knock on your door when it gets there.

Joey Adams said, "A girl's best Beauty Aid is a "Near-sighted man."

Over 300 enter Spot Pond Fathers' Day Road Race was a success

In excess of 300 adult runners, kids, exhibitors and visitors participated in this year's Spot Pond Fathers' Day Road Race, Aerobic Clinic and Mini Wellness Fair presented by The National Coalition for Educational and Cultural Programs (NCECP).

The event was held at the MDC Flynn Skating Rink/Environmental Education and Hiking Center. Major sponsors included BRMC's Center for Child and Family Development, Stoneham Co-Operative Bank, MDC Special Events and the YMCA Reading/Wakefield Family Branch. Overall winner of the 5-mile loop around Spot Pond was Joel Rich with a time of 24:54 and the first female runner over the finish line was Stoneham's own Andrea Gillespie with a time of 29:08.

Proceeds from the event benefit National Coalition for Educational and Cultural Programs, Inc., a volunteer non-profit group based in Stoneham and dedicated to teachers, parents and families since 1991.

Special thanks to the following for their part in the success of this community event: Action Ambulance, Atlantic Supermarket (Reading), Awards Unlimited (Somerville), Boston Coffee Cake Co. (Woburn), Boston Globe, Stoneham Boy Scouts, BRMC Complementary Medicine Program, Mike Hughes Campaign, Foot Care of Stoneham, Frito-Lay, Gold's Gym of Woburn, Hood, Lahey Clinic, Middlesex Sheriff's Office, MVP Sports, NECCO, NE Springwater (N. Reading), Paul O'Neill Campaign, Railroad Land Use Committee of Stoneham, Rejuvenation Day Spa (Stoneham), Ruma Fruit (Everett), Shaw's Supermarket of Stoneham, Stoneham/Reading Tobacco, Control Program, Veryfine Juices, Yoplait/Colombo Yogurt and the many volunteer, participants, and visitors.

Free canoe trips on the Merrimack this summer

Merrimack River Watershed Council (MRWC) announces ten scenic river canoe trips for July and August, in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

"This is a great program for getting to know our rivers", said Gwen Whiting of Nashua, New Hampshire, who coordinates the MRWC canoe trip program with help from other volunteers and local organizations. "These canoe trips let people experience the beauty and diversity of our rivers and streams from a water level perspective."

Open to the public, each canoe trip has a theme, such as historical study, bird watching, riding the tide, or viewing fall foliage. During the past twelve years volunteers have organized hundreds of canoe trips, on behalf of MRWC, a non-profit environmental group working to promote and protect the Merrimack River Watershed.

The canoes head out at 9 or 9:30 am and proceed at a leisurely pace, with a lunch break around noon. Most day trips end around 3 pm, though some longer trips include overnight camping.

Each trip is ranked according to difficulty, and beginners should take the trips labeled "easy".

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

Programs blossom as summer continues

A growing 'garden' in Stoneham

"The Stoneham Garden Club closed the 1997-1998 season with two popular events," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The Plant Sale and Luncheon held at All Saints Episcopal Church under the general chairmanship of Jane Trenholm was a great success."

"The Annual Club Meeting and Luncheon was held at King's Grant. Lise Smith served as hostess for the day. After a delicious meal, President Marian Ringland called the meeting to order. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Jane Trenholm reported on the financial success of the Plant Sale and Luncheon and gave a rousing thank you to all who worked so hard to make that day such a rewarding one."

"The Annual Report of the club was given by Bernice Lobdell in the absence of Secretary Mary Doucette. Four new members were welcomed to the club this year."

"Inez Wodbury, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, announced that Tim Cummings of Stoneham High School was this year's recipient. Cummings plans to continue his education at Stonehill College."

"Jean Haley, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the Slate of Officers for the 1998-1999 season. They are as follows: President-Marian Ringland, Vice President-Eva Kanchuga, Recording Secretary-Mary Doucette, Corresponding Secretary-Jean Haley, Treasurer-Dolores Corradino, Press Correspondent-Patricia Erlandson, Exhibit and Herb Garden-Bernadine DiLuzio, Horticulture-Betty Danis, Membership-Jo Malva...."

A 'RAD' idea in North Reading

"If you were surprised by an attacker in your home or a desolate parking lot, would you have what it takes to escape?" notes Maureen G. Doherty in the "North Reading Transcript."

"...As a graduate of the first Rape Aggression Defense (RAD) course offered by the North Reading Police Department, I realize how little I had known previously about defending myself in a threatening, face-to-face situation...."

"Judging by the fact that over 100 women applied to be accepted into the program immediately upon hearing of the course initiated locally by Officer Jodi Gerardi, I know I'm not the only woman who harbored doubts about my self-defense skills."

"And let's not forget that the Police Blotter is the most popular column in the Transcript each week. Those who read it faithfully must be aware that virtually each week officers are called to quell one or more domestic situations in town."

"Along with 15 other RAD students, I was taught a variety of techniques during four intensive four-hour sessions by a team of trained police officers."

"Gerardi, as well as officers Paul Dorsey, Jr. and Jack Morrison, were assisted in their inaugural course by officers from Reading and Haverhill, two communities where the RAD program is well established...."

A winner in Winchester

"The Massachusetts Long Term Care Foundation has announced that it will award $150,000 in scholarships to 88 outstanding individuals, including a Winchester individual working the long term care field," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Evelyn Monestime, CNA (LPN) of the Aberjona Nursing Center in Winchester is among these scholarship winners."

"Foundation President Daniel Salmon said, 'If we were to judge how well our society treats its most valuable citizens based on the profiles of our 88 scholarship recipients, we would have to conclude that our society has passed the test with honor and distinction....'"

From S-1

"It certainly is an honor to be the Grand Marshall. I feel I represent all of the veterans in every branch of the service because we would never have gotten to Tinian if the infantry and the Marines hadn't taken all of the islands."

According to Curran, one of those Marines was former Wakefield High School hockey goalie Wendall "Buddy" Vidito, who was one of 49,000 Marines that lost their life on Iwo Jima to save the lives of 2,500 airmen.

Curran said he will also be representing the mothers and fathers of Wakefield people who lost their lives in the war.

He remembered such people as his best friend from high school, Thomas F. Hurton, Jr. who lost his life in a B-29 shot down over Italy. His next door neighbor Paul Hurton who lost his life in a fight over France and William Reed who was killed in a submarine.

"World War II touched almost every home in town," Curran said, "the forgotten people, in a way were the parents, the mothers and fathers."

Curran joined the U.S. Army Air Corps in December, 1943. However, he had to wait until March, 1944 before he could be inducted at the age of 18.

He was in Gunnery School in Florida, with the man who would become his best friend in the War, former Woburn High School hockey player J. Warren Cotty, when D-Day occurred.

"He had played hockey against Wakefield in the old Boston Arena," Curran recalled. "We became best friends all through basic training and gunnery school."

After Gunnery School, he was sent to Nebraska where the Ninth Bomb Group of the 313th Wing was formed and trained with his new crew members on the B-29. Cotty was sent to the sixth bomb group.

In December, 1944 the crew of the ninth was sent to Harrington, Kansas to pick-up their new B-29 off the lines and fly it to the Pacific.

They flew 35 missions over Japan and two others for a total of 37 missions. Those missions included bombings and flying escort for the B-52s that needed navigation to and "hopefully from" Japan.

Curran most remembered a mining mission where his plane had to drop seven 2,000 pound mines in the Shimonsuki Straits between two of Japan's main islands.

According to Curran, the plane was flying in cloud cover during a night run and was doing a solo run. Because of the storm in the clouds the navigator was getting false signals which sent the plane about 100 miles off course.

This was not noticed until they hit a break in the clouds and Curran, the only person who had a vantage point to see outside, spotted a light on in a cabin on the side of a mountain.

He was able to warn the pilot that they were flying too low and probably saved the lives of every person on the plane.

As for Cotty, he was having his own adventures, according to Curran. During one run, the plane Cotty was a gunner on lost two of its engines while flying over Tokyo. The pilot was able to get it back to Tinian where the crew, including Cotty were able to bail out.

The pilot was not able to get out until the plane had flown about 20 miles north of the island. According to Curran, the pilot landed in the water and was saved after blowing the whistle he kept around his neck. Curran and Cotty, who now lives in Lexington, still keep in touch.

Curran noted that the 11 member crew formed a strong bond and stayed in touch even after the war was over. Only four other members are alive today, but they all get together for an annual reunion.

This year the remaining five members of the crew will travel to San Diego, where the oldest member still lives.

Curran describes the 88 year-old Daniel Sweeny as a person who is still in good physical shape.

Curran was discharged in October, 1945 and became a fire-fighter in April, 1946. He served on the department for 45 years.

During those years he and his wife, Katherine "Jean" Curran raised seven children. They are Charles "Chuck" Curran, Jr., Patricia Freda, Rosemarie Ficociello, Shirley Palmerino, Diane Yamarino, Thomas Curran and Mark Curran.

The couple, together with their children and 23 grandchildren, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last January.

any ballroom dancer will tell you. Folks, when it feels like the world's falling in around you, go to where the Fountain of Youth really can be found and that of course is the Ballroom Dance Floor. I remember when the men would SHAVE, SHOWER and put on their best suits and the woman, God Love them, would curl their hair, put on their best dresses step into their dancing shoes and men and women would go DANCING.

It might have been the Wonderland, Kimbal's Starlight, Totem Pole or the Commodore in Lowell. I had the dubious reputation of being a, "TOE DANCER." Many young and older women LIMPED off the dance floor after I stepped on their toes.

A car dealer showed Bob Bonney a new model car. He told Bob, "press this yellow button and a Marilyn Monroe type 'blonde' jumps in beside you. Press the Red button and a lovely red-head will sit with you and the Black button a Brunette will get in the car. After a while the dealer asked "Well, have you decided to buy the car?" "No,"

Folks, even in the fifth grade I would come up with nutty questions and answers like are common in Woodchips.

Canoe Trips

From S-3

Everyone must wear a life preserver and know how to swim. Small children and pets are discouraged, unless accompanied by an experienced paddler. Trip leaders will describe current stream conditions and promote safe boating practices, but people are responsible for their own safety.

People should bring their canoe or kayak, paddles, life preserver, first aid kit, lunch and beverages. Most canoe trips proceed rain or shine, unless overnight camping is involved. Wear sneakers that can get wet, and pack a jacket, towel, and dry clothes in a plastic bag.

No advance registration is required, and all the trips are free, unless noted for "members only". For more information and directions, call the contact person listed for each trip.

For a 1998 canoe trip brochure, from April through October call MRWC in Lawrence, MA 978-681-5777, or Concord, NH 603-224-8322.

Lowell Spinners are struggling

Coming off a rainy Fourth of July weekend in Oneonta, New York, the Lowell Spinners were hoping for some dry weather as they opened a two game series on Tuesday night at Centennial Field just off the campus of the University of Vermont in Burlington. The Spinners have struggled in the early stages of New York Penn League season, and their 7-13 record puts them at the bottom of the McNamara Division.

The team played perhaps their best ballgame of the season on Sunday, taking a 3-0 win against the Yankees affiliate in Oneonta. They will have to continue to raise the level of play throughout this week as they face the two teams with the best records in the league.

The Vermont Expos with a roster that includes a half dozen first round draft choices, have started their season playing fourteen of their first twenty games on the road and still managed to compile a 12-8 record, second best in the league to the Toronto Blue Jays affiliate, St. Catherines Stompers. The Expos played four games at St. Catherines over the weekend, winning three. The Stompers had been undefeated at home prior to that series. With the arrival of the Spinners, Vermont starts a stretch of home games that will have them playing twelve of their next sixteen at home.

The Expos will send out their top pitcher to open the Spinners series. Jorge Julio shut out Lowell in their home opener on inaugural night at LaLachur Stadium back on June 22nd. The rest of the league hasn't had much more success against him. Through four starts Julio has compiled a 2-0 record and a 1.13 ERA, striking out 28 hitters in 24 innings pitched. Donnie Bridges, who has had similar early season success, will throw for the Expos on Wednesday.

Short stop Albenis Machado and second baseman Tootie Myers have been the Expos best offensive players over the past two weeks, leading a hitting attack that has continued to produce wins without the benefit of a single homerun so far this season.

On Thursday night the Spinners return home to Lowell to open a four game series with the St. Catherines Stompers. In spite of their series loss to the Expos, the Stompers at 13-7 going into Tuesday's game have posted the best record in the NYPL.

The Stompers, apparently from grape country in Southern Ontario, have been led by catcher Chad Polk who is hitting .457 through thirteen games. The team recently added Ryan Bundy to their roster, their second draft pick in the June 1998 amateur draft.

The Spinners will host St. Catherines for four games Thursday night through Saturday beginning at 7pm and on Sunday evening at 5pm, before heading back out on the road for a two game rematch at Poughkeepsie, New York against the Hudson Valley Renegades who had roughed up the Spinners a bit in their recent meeting in Lowell.

YOUNGSTERS CAN LEARN BABY-SITTING SKILLS

For a young person, babysitting is a big responsibility. Not only must a baby-sitter be sure the kids behave and are in bed on time, there are many other things for which he or she must be responsible. If there is an emergency, the baby-sitter must be the one who takes action. How will he or she know what to do?

Baby-sitting courses, provided by the hospitals of Hallmark Health, are a great way to prepare youngsters for the responsibility of baby-sitting. The classes are for sixth grade children ages 11 and up. Three courses are offered: Level I Baby Sitting Basics will be offered on Monday, July 13, Level II Pediatric CPR will be offered on Wednesday, July 15 and Level III Basic First Aid will be offered on Friday, July 17. All classes are from 9 am - 3 pm at the new Beebe Library in Wakefield.

In addition to helpful information provided by Hallmark Health professionals, police and firefighters will participate to discuss topics ranging from fire safety in the home to handling prank phone calls. Participants will learn accident prevention, first aid, child care and how to play safely. Youngsters who attend all three sessions will receive a certificate of attendance.

The fees for these classes are: Level I Baby Sitting Basics $20, Level II Pediatric CPR $25 and Level III Basic First Aid $30. Take one or take all three classes for $75. Space is limited. For more information or to register, please call 781-246-6334.

TREE-IDENTIFICATION GUIDE BOOK AVAILABLE

"What Tree Is That?," a pocket guide for identifying trees, is available from The National Arbor Day Foundation.

The 72-page guide will help you identify 135 different trees found in the eastern and central U.S.

Well-known trees are included: oaks, maples, spruces, and pines. Also species such as horsechestnut and mockernut hickory, sassafras and shadbush, persimmon and pawpaw and pagodatree and pecan.

Dozens of drawings illustrate the trees' leaves or needles and their acorns, berries, seed pods, cones, etc. "What Tree Is That?" is organized to make it easy to identify trees in a simple step-by-step fashion.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees is central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said. "Being able to identify trees is important to knowing how to care for them and how to plant the right tree in the right place."

To obtain your tree ID guide, send your name and address and $3 to "What Tree Is That?," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

CANCER SOCIETY'S RELAY FOR LIFE

Local residents can help light the night for walkers in the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life event by sponsoring a lantern in honor of a loved one with cancer. The event is a 24-hour team relay event to be held at Northern Essex Community College on July 24 & 25.

Relay for Life features teams of 10-12 walkers or runners who keep a continuous presence on the track by walking in shifts for a full 24 hours to raise funds for the American Cancer Society. A luminaria ceremony will be held at 10 pm on Friday, July 24th. This portion of the event adds personal tributes and remembrances to the efforts of the teams involved, many of whom have themselves been touched by cancer.

Candle lanterns for the ceremony can be sponsored for a contribution of $5 or more, according to event planning committee member, Heather Long Molinero. "The reason we will be walking on July 24th and 25th is because we have hope that cancer will ultimately be controlled," said Mrs. Molinero. "The luminaria ceremony will honor those who are fighting cancer now, those who have beaten it, and those who have lost their fight."

For more information on sponsoring a luminaria, contact Kerry Ellen Enright at 978-988-3600, ext. 223.

From Mass. Farmers' Association Organic food directory is free

Here is the 1998-99 NOFA/Mass. Organic Food Guide, a project of the non-profit Northeast Organic Farming Association (NOFA/Mass). The 1998-99 Organic Food Guide provides information on the locations of and products offered by 97 farms as well as stores and co-operatives across the state of Massachusetts.

A large number of the farms are certified organic by NOFA/Mass., meaning they meet some of the most stringent organic growing standards in the country.

To receive a copy of the Organic Food Guide please send 55 cents to Julie Rawson, NOFA/Mass. Coordinator, at 411 Sheldon Road, Barre, MA 01005 or call her at 978-355-2853.

With concern over individual health, food safety, and environmental quality associated with pesticides and animals raised on hormones and antibiotics, demand for organic food is growing rapidly. The Organic Food Guide offers the public information on where alternatives to healthier food are.

Organic foods are produced without the use of synthetic chemical fertilizers, pesticides, herbicides, and fungicides. Organic farmers' stewardship of the land maintains the soil as a healthy, living entity capable of producing food for generations to come. In their fields, farmers keep insects and diseases in check through the use of crop rotations, plant-derived sprays, resistant crop varieties, and biological controls.

School Notes by Phyllis Nissen

Lock, stock and barrel?

A 'lock in' in Wilmington

"Seniors roamed the halls of Wilmington High School aimlessly, wondering who they were, why they were there, experiencing hot and cold flashes, and believing their feet were stuck to the floor, as karaoke music blared in the background and as basketballs and volleyballs were thrown around the gym," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"This was the scene of the first annual Senior Lock-in held at Wilmington High School.

"After the annual Senior Banquet in which Mr. John Krey was honored in the class yearbook and the class history, prophesy, and will were read, seniors were taken to the gym where they changed into appropriate clothing and would initiate 'a night to remember.' Seniors would recall this night as 'very strange,' but also as an extremely enjoyable excursion and a wonderful start to an annual event...."

Another beginning in Reading

"Beginning this fall, Reading should have an exciting new Adult Educational Network, thanks to a grant from the Massachusetts Department of Education (see last week's 'School Notes') and some hard work on the part of the local and state YMCA and Reading's Adult Education Program," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"At an informational meeting at the Reading Public Library, Ionella Istrate of the Education and Training Branch of the YMCA in Boston, along with Liz Geraghty and Lorraine Dennis of the Reading YMCA, detailed a vision of free classes which will be offered most likely on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights from six or six thirty to nine o'clock.

"Through some extensive polling, it was learned that the Town has a need for Basic Education classes (reading, writing, math), English As a Second Language classes, and GED preparation training. Istrate noted that they are 'trying to incorporate computer instruction' into all classes, 'because English is not enough.' If the program begins in late September as they hope, the first classes will be in Basic Education, with others to follow.

"Expectations are that the classes will be well-attended. According to Istrate, Woburn began a similar program in March and it was very successful. Dennis noted that the Department of Education has approved the grant for the program through 1999, and they will be applying for 2000. She said the Department of Education was confident there would be more money available in the future. Part of the plan will rely on volunteers and donations. Istrate noted she had spoken with Lotus about donating computers for the program...."

A 'watershed' in Wakefield

"The Watershed Awareness Program at the Galvin Middle School won third place for the Secretary's Award for Excellence in Environmental Education this spring," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Watershed Awareness Program provides every fifth and sixth grade student in Wakefield with a memorable hands-on field study experience.

"Each spring, an environmental education specialist provides technical assistance to middle school teachers, as well as classroom and outdoor demonstrations for students.

"In mid-May and early June, every class spends a morning or afternoon in nearby Reedy Meadow conducting experiments such as 'ponding' and percolation testing. They are accompanied by their teachers, environmental specialists, and community volunteers from Converse (Boston Technology) and the Friends of Lake Quannapowitt.

"The Watershed Awareness Program is funded through the Galvin PTO, the Wakefield Educational Foundation, the Saugus River Watershed Council, and the Friends of Lake Quannapowitt. The original funding came from the Department of Environmental Management's Lake and Pond Program."

MOVIE PREVIEW

Armageddon - 3 stars

MOVIE: "ARMAGEDDON"
GRADE: ***

Review: The three star rating for this one is given for the sheer spectacle of this summer blockbuster, and certainly not for the plotline or the performances.

This film basically takes the plotline of a film released earlier this year, "Deep Impact", and does a poorer job of bringing it to the big screen. Once again a giant asteroid is hurtling towards Earth, and if it hits all life on this planet will be snuffed out. Manhattan once again gets leveled, and a team of heroes is sent to land on the asteroid and try to change its flight path away from Earth. Sound familiar?

Bruce Willis, Liv Tyler, Ben Affleck and Billy Bob Thornton make the best of the roles they are given, but Steve Buscemi steals the film as a genius hooked on pornography.

The script is a bit hokey, the plotline is predictable (especially if you saw the other film), but the sheer size and scope of the stunts, the volume of the soundtrack, and the special effects will help carry you into another world for two-and-a-half hours, which is what we look for in a summer movie anyway, isn't it?

Length: 151 minutes

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "OUT OF SIGHT"
GRADE: ***

Review: This excellent adaptation of an Elmore Leonard novel shows that George Clooney is not making a mistake by leaving the cast of the television series "ER" to pursue a movie career.

Clooney's performance lately made one wonder if he should stay on the small screen, but he carries this film very easily as bank robber who falls for the federal agent who is after him, played by Jennifer Lopez. There are also strong performances turned in by Dennis Farina and Albert Brooks, as well as Ving Rhames (it seems like this fine actor has a bit part in almost every movie made these days).

The attraction between Clooney's and Lopez's characters is easy to pick up on, and both make it believable as the relationship heats up.

Any fan of Elmore Leonard novels knows that they contain many plot twists and turns, and this adaptation is true to form.

Rated: R (Mature themes, violence)
Length: 126 minutes

MOVIE: "THE X-FILES: FIGHT THE FUTURE"
GRADE: ****

Review: The tag line for the show may be "Trust No One", but trust me when I tell you this: both diehard fans and first-time viewers will not be disappointed by this big screen version of the hit television series.

Producer/Creator Chris Carter successfully brings the characters of Fox Mulder (David Duchovny) and Dana Scully (Gillian Anderson) to Hollywood, along with the regular bunch of supporting players from the series, including fan favorites the Lone Gunmen and Cigarette Smoking Man.

The plotline is a little outrageous, centering on a conspiracy which, according to the prologue, has been going on since 35,000 B.C., but the witty dialogue and interaction between Mulder and Scully that has helped make the television show such a hit also carries the film over its slight shortcomings.

Longtime fans of the show will be thrown a few tidbits to carry them over until next season, while casual moviegoers will be able to follow along with the plot quite easily. Moviegoers on both sides of the "Should Mulder and Scully kiss?" debate will also be happily satisfied, as one pivotal scene is carried out in a very clever way.

Rated: PG-13 (minor language, violence)

Length: 121 minutes.

MOVIE: "THE TRUMAN SHOW"
GRADE: ****

Review: Because Jim Carrey gets paid millions to make films these days, it's tough to call this a breakthrough role, but the man known for his comedic ability pulls off a dramatic role here with ease.

Many Carrey fans were disappointed with "The Cable Guy", the last time Carrey tried to break out of his funny-guy mold and played a dark and twisted man. They'll likely be surprised with this performance as Truman Burbank, an innocent, sweet guy who slowly realizes that there is something different about his life: the world truly does revolve around him, because his entire existence has been staged, unbeknownst to him, for the world's first 24-hour a day drama. Millions have watched him literally grow up on television, and have followed his every move on the world's largest soundstage (visible from space) which is made up to look like a fictional town.

Carrey is excellent, as you can literally watch him becoming more aware of what's going on around him simply by reading his facial expressions, from wide-eyed innocence to hurt and confusion. Other little things like the posters in a travel agents' office (designed to encourage him not to travel), and the performance of Ed Harris as the creator of the show and Truman's world are gems as well.

Rated: PG (some mature themes)
Length: 101 minutes

MOVIE: "GODZILLA"
GRADE: **

Review: According to the ad campaign for this one, size does matter, but this movie may have gotten too big for its britches.

Yes, the big lizard has been updated using current computer wizardry, and the effects are the main reason to see this movie. But beyond that the plotline is pretty weak (then again, you can't exactly call a 20-story reptile attacking the Big Apple Shakespeare, now can you), and stars Matthew Broderick, Jean Reno, and Maria Parillo are little more than window dressing as the mayhem ensues.

Fans of the Godzilla series will be disappointed by this entry, which, though bigger, certainly isn't better than those campy monster movies of the 1970's.

Length: 144 minutes

The House of the Week

Contemporary with multiplicity

Majestic arched openings frame doors and windows in the Rochester, a contemporary home with a lavish multiplicity of interior and exterior living areas.

Entering, you step into a bright entry with a lofty 15-foot ceiling. Light spills in through multipaned windows that flank and overarch the door while plant shelves above and below add visual interest along the passageway.

Both the living room and the dining room are also richly windowed. The living room has a 12-foot ceiling and a fireplace flanked by shelves. An elegant coffered ceiling crowns the dining room. Everyday family living spaces are at the rear, where a bay-shaped screened porch expands the vaulted family room and another window bay creates an eating nook. A fireplace is at one end, next to the entertainment center, and the kitchen is at the other.

This luxurious master suite boasts its own entertainment center along with an exceptionally spacious walk-in closet. Amenities in the master bathroom include twin lavs, soaking tub, private toilet, and a walk-in shower with a seat.

The Rochester also has an office/guest suite on the main floor, and two bedrooms with a balcony on the second level.

Mexican country style is "in"

Mexican food delicacies are already available in almost any North American town. Now Mexican country style is gaining ground in decor.

Your Garden - Your Home

Those familiar with Southwestern style will probably recognize Mexican country, because the Southwestern style developed from it.

More than 41 Mexican companies showed furniture at High Point in the fall of 1997, compared with only nine companies in 1995, Graciela Bravo said. She is Mexico's deputy trade commissioner, stationed in Atlanta.

Manufacturers offered a variety of styles, but rustic designs based on traditional styles were prominent.

"Mexican country furniture is a relative of Spanish colonial style with the same hearty proportions and hand-forged hardware," Karen Witynski said.

"Country pieces usually are simplified interpretations without the heavy, ornate carving and applique details found on the more formal colonial styles."

Witynski and her partner Joe P. Carr operate Carr-Wit, an antiques and decorating business in Austin, Texas. They are co-authors of a new book, "Mexican Country Style" (Gibbs Smith, $39.95).

In addition to furniture, recycled architectural elements are part of the look. Old doors are turned into headboards and dining tables; shutters become side tables with the addition of iron bases.

Large shallow wooden bowls known as "morteros," or mortars, once used to grind lic stores with Mexican cotee mortars to display boxer shorts," Witynski said.

The partners also have helped high-profile private clients such as Ted Turner and Jane Fonda create a Mexican look at home with country antiques and architectural elements. Turner and Fonda used a pair of antique Mexican doors as the front entrance at their Montana ranch.

The options for adding elements of Mexican style range from such high-end antiques and handmade adaptations of antique wood, to less expensive, mass-produced pieces sold in retail stores and catalogs.

The largest selection is in the Southwest, where the look has been popular for years, but other sections of the country are catching up, Carr said.

In New York, stylish stores such as ABC Carpet & Home and Zona both carry the look.

"Mexican goes well with other rustic styles, whether French or Moroccan or Spanish or Italian. The pieces blend well with various ethnic and folk arts and crafts," said Louis Sagar, owner of Zona.

His customers appreciate the rich tradition of painted pieces with complex patterns in bright primary colors, he says.

"Often, there are lovely handcraft details, hand-wrought iron hardware on chests, tile tops on tables, fine carving, a pleasing mix of wood and iron."
